Neisha Becton, M.A., CEO, will talk on how Pathways to Wellness Medication Clinic is managing client care in a COVID-19 world.

Neisha Becton has worked in the mental healthcare field as a clinician and administrator since completing her undergraduate and graduate programs at Notre Dame de Namur in Belmont, California in 1992. Since forming Becton Healthcare Resources (BHR) in 1999, Neisha has played an important role in developing mental health programs for Alameda County and for regional providers of community mental health services.

She is a nationally recognized leader in her field and has received numerous awards, including Outstanding African-American Entrepreneur Award and the Community Service Award from the Alameda County Mental Health Board, Outstanding Leadership Award, National Leadership Award and Business Women of the Year Award. Neisha continues to work closely with NAMI and supports Tri-Valley NAMI by donating space to hold support groups every month.

Neisha Becton is committed to continuing to provide superior services to people suffering from a mental illness. She is dedicated to elevating mental health awareness and advocating for this under-served population at a more national level.
